

Environmental policy

Environmental protection is one of the core values of our company and an important part of our corporate governance. With the implementation of this environmental policy, we want to make a contribution to sustainable development and at the same time gain competitive advantages.

Continuous Improvement

Based on the applicable environmental regulations, customer requirements and other specifications, it is our goal to systematically and continuously improve operational environmental protection.

Responsible employees

We promote the environmental knowledge and environmental awareness of our employees through constant training and further education and motivate them to act responsibly beyond their operational activities.

Technical development

The environmental impacts of new activities, products, technologies and processes are assessed before they are introduced. In this context, the legal requirements, together with the customer requirements, represent a minimum criterion. The use of environmentally friendly processes and technologies is promoted with the aim of saving resources such as raw materials, energy and water.

Low environmental impact

We take the necessary measures to avoid harmful environmental impacts of our activities and products. We use raw materials and energy sparingly and reduce environmentally harmful emissions and waste to a minimum. In this context, we also take extensive measures to prevent accidents and limit damage.

Monitoring and evaluation

We regularly evaluate the status of environmental protection in our company as well as the technical and organizational procedures in order to identify weaknesses and initiate appropriate preventive or improvement measures. The impact of our company's current and planned activities on the local environment is regularly monitored and evaluated.

Communication and dialogue

We conduct an open dialogue with customers, authorities and the public about environmentally relevant issues in our company. We influence our business partners to act according to equivalent environmental guidelines and to actively support environmental protection. The management and all employees are committed to this environmental policy.
